Meet the Band

Bios...

Dan Romano was born January 12, 1977 in Montreal, Canada. His musical path began at age 9 with the accordion and keyboards, eventually moving to the electric bass at age 15. Two years later, primarily self taught, his focus shifted to the 6-string fretless electric bass.

After returning from a European tour with another Montreal outfit, the Peaks, he finally found Brewchad. An immediate chemistry was formed with the guys which channeled into several great new songs. With a blend of superb North American Rock and Brit-Pop sensibility, this partnership looks set to bear wonderful fruits.

Nigel Hunt From a sleepy village in Sussex, England, to the so-called "buzztown" Montreal in 2005, Nigel Hunt has been all over the musical map. Learning his trade in England with several underground bands, he crossed the Atlantic and immediately made contact with Montreal's Chom L'Esprit winners, Hol'fader.

John Serino was born March 31, 1977 in Montreal, Canada. Music entered John's life at the age of 5, in the form of singing lessons. At age 12 he began to study music privately, where he stopped singing, and moved to musical theory and the guitar.

Always intrigued by composition John Serino has both written and performed for other artists. After years of not vocalizing a single note, John was tricked by Dan Romano into singing for Brewchad.

Pat Cristiano was born in Potenza, Italy. He came to Montreal, Canada, at the age of 5. At 15, his ongoing passion for the guitar began. In 2001, Pat completed a Bachelor's degree in Music. In 2002, he was accepted at the prestigious Berklee College.

In 2004, he reached the semifinals of the Montreal "Guitar Hero" competition and the following year, finished 2nd in the rock category of the "Montreal Guitar Grand Prix". Pat joined Brewchad in 2009 and is deeply excited and honoured to be a part of the band, with which he plans on sharing his passion and musical experience with the world over.
